of equalization today rescinded their action of a few days ago reducing the assessed valuation of the real estate in block 67 (bank block), Provo city, by resolution declaring that inasmuch as the various owners of real estate on that block had not made separate petition and otherwise come before the board in the manner provided by law, the former action undoubtedly would not be held good any way by the state board of equalization, and thereby serious results might ensue. This action was arrived at after very long consultation and reading of the law on the subject, the members of the board finally becoming convinced that they had a right only to make personal reductions and not a general reduction as this was, made at the request of a amittee of the men doing business in the block. The matter now standing as it was will displease many, and a mighty kick will be made. This prop-erty in Provo is assessed at $300 per front foot, whereas in Springville and other settlements similar property is assessed at only $25 per front foot. This, of course, Provo taxpayers claim is unfair, while taxpayers in other cities in the county bring forth many arguments that Provo should be required to pay more instead of less of the county and state taxes.
